Dr. Seuss™

Theodor Seuss Geisel was an American thinker, writer, poet, and artist, most widely known for his children's books written under the pen name Dr. Seuss. His legacy is a feast of wonderful books and his words of wisdom help us learn from the past, live in the present, and build for the future.

Educators have long used Dr. Seuss books to improve their students' reading skills and to spark their imaginations. This Dr. Seuss in the Classroom program was created to engage students and add supplemental activities to support the units, standards, and skills being taught and practiced in the classroom. Organized by subject, it's easy to pick out a Dr. Seuss book for every unit!

Look for the subject bursts and lessons for fun and engaging supplemental activities for your classroom units!

Horton Hears a Who! teaches the lesson “A Person’s a Person,
No Matter How Small!” and that every voice counts.
Ask the kids what kinds of things they have done to help their family, school, community, or selves. How did it make them feel? (For younger children, you can just ask what nice or kind things they have done.)

Did they:

Stand up for someone?

Stand up for something they believe in?

Recycle and help the environment?

Stay true to themselves?

Volunteer in the community?

For the Classroom!

After reading The Lorax, discuss with your students some of the ways we can all help the environment. Use the following chart and have students write or talk about things that are harmful and things that are helpful. Use the examples below to start the conversation. Then have each student come up with their own way to help the environment!

Harmful	Helpful

Plant a tree

Dump waste into the ocean

Recycle
cans and bottles

Throw trash out the window

To help my environment, I pledge to _____

For the Community! Helping Hands

Helping your students "speak for the trees" can be as simple as organizing a school beautification project that benefits the entire community. Don't hesitate to turn to the community for help!

- Your school principal can rally community support and help secure appropriate permissions for projects from the school district or county.
- Maintenance and custodial staff know the school and grounds inside and out. Invite their input and feedback.
- Your school media specialist and your librarian are great resources for researching and planning beautification efforts.
- Classroom teachers and specialists will want to use the beautified spaces as classrooms or learning laboratories. Ask for their ideas and their help to make it work for everyone.
- Parents and your school's parent organization can volunteer ideas, time, and possibly funding.
- Local service clubs and scouting groups are often willing to provide labor or supplies.
- Garden clubs, nurseries, and other local businesses may donate or discount plants or supplies.
- Your county or state government may have resources to share. Local employees of U.S. Department of the Interior agencies may also be able to offer advice, support, or resources.

Bonus Activity! Textured Moon Painting

What you’ll need: black paper, a pencil, white paint, flour, a paintbrush, a bottle cap, and shiny star stickers

- 1 On a black piece of paper, draw a large circle for the moon.
- 2 Mix flour into the white paint until it’s textured like cottage cheese, and paint inside the entire moon.
- 3 While the paint is still wet, use a bottle cap to press circles into the paint to create craters.
- 4 Add shiny star stickers around the moon for a nighttime glow!

Book-a-Day Reading Program

The more that you read,
The more things you will know.
The more that you learn,
The more places you'll go.

No matter what age, class, grade, or subject, reading a book a day in the classroom is a powerful invitation to students to find pleasure in stories. Reading encourages creativity, inspires, teaches empathy, and improves concentration. Celebrate the incredible stories available to us with a book a day, and start it off with a Dr. Seuss classic!
