AN ADVENTURE TO WRITE ABOUT!

In the exciting new film Paddington, Paddington Bear likes to write letters to his Aunt Lucy, who is still in Darkest Peru.

He loves Aunt Lucy, who took care of him since he was only a baby bear.

Paddington lets Aunt Lucy know that London is a very exciting place. Where else can a bear have tea, marmalade and biscuits, chase after a thief while on a skateboard, and find out how a vacuum cleaner can save your life?

ADVENTURE LETTER DETAILS

Write a letter to someone you love, telling about your adventures! Remember that an adventure can be any event or activity where something surprising or unusual happened, even if it was close to home!

First, write and draw your letter ideas in the sections below. Then follow your teacher's directions to complete the letter using your ideas.

This letter will be written to:
Adventure Details	What My Adventure Looks Like

Parents! Ask your child to read his or her Adventure Letter to you. You might even write a return letter about one of your own special childhood memories, such as a special birthday or trip.

ADVENTURES IN LITERACY AT HOME!

Follow these tips to help make reading books like the new Paddington Bear series a fun adventure for your child!

- Mix it up! Introduce different book genres. For example, non-fiction titles about bears are a perfect match-up to the fictional Paddington Bear reader series!
- Stay on schedule! Plan to read together every night. Keep it consistent, and make it cozy to reinforce that reading is important and fun.
- Communicate! Ask questions and make connections between your child's real life experiences and those you read about together.
- Communicate more! Stay in touch with your child's teacher to find out how you can support efforts at school.
