

Buddy has many adventures in the new movie Elf. But whenever he gets in trouble, he remembers Rule Three of the Elf Code: “The best way to spread Christmas cheer is singing loud for all to hear.” It’s true. People really cheer up when they’re singing, and troubles just fade away.

Part 1 Another way to spread cheer is by telling a story. Look at Buddy’s holiday word-list. Can you think of some holiday words to add to his list? Write them on the blank lines. Then think of a story that uses all the words on your list. Turn your story into a storybook using a separate sheet of paper.

Part 2

What is your favorite holiday song? Sing it loud and clear. Then try to make up a holiday song of your own. Just fit new words to a song you already know. Here’s one to get you started. Sing it to the tune of “Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star.”

*Buddy, Buddy, giant elf,
Happy just to be himself.
Helps us all feel holiday cheer
By singing loud for all to hear.
Buddy, Buddy, giant elf,
Happy just to be himself.*
