MIGRATION

Dear Parents and Guardians,

With a classroom program inspired by the new animated Illumination film, Migration, your child has been learning about birds and migration, and that they, too, can grow and change by working together. Ask your child to share some fun new facts they've learned! Then, keep the fun going with the activities below.

Let's Fly

Let the Mallard Family lead the way. Check out the Let's Fly interactive digital quiz with your child to test your migration knowledge: ymiclassroom.com/migration.

Adventure Together!

Have some family fun talking about your own fictitious migration vacation! At dinner or during a car ride, have each family member answer the following questions:

- Where would you go on a migration vacation?
- What are two places you would stop along the way to rest or for sightseeing?
- If you could only pack 5 things, what would you pack?
- What type of bird do you think would give the best travel advice?
- If you could join the Mallards on their migration vacation to Jamaica, would you go? Why or why not?
- What would be fun about flying with the Mallards?
- Who do you think you'd meet traveling with the Mallards?

Let your imaginations soar!

Birds of a Feather Observe Together!

Make bird-watching a family activity! It's fun and it encourages your child's focus and observation skills. You can even participate in community science by submitting your observations into bird migration databases, such as eBird, Project Feeder Watch, and the Great Backyard Bird Count. Find out more about these opportunities at The Cornell Lab of Ornithology at birds.cornell.edu/home/citizen-science-be-part-of-something-bigger.

ABOUT MIGRATION

This holiday season, Illumination invites you to take flight into the thrill of the unknown with a funny, feathered family vacation like no other in the new action-packed, original comedy, Migration. The Mallard Family is in a bit of rut. While dad Mack is content to keep his family safe paddling around their New England pond forever, mom Pam is eager to shake things up and show their kids — teen son Dax and duckling daughter Gwen — what else is out there in the world. After another migrating duck family lands on their pond with thrilling tales of far-flung places, Pam persuades Mack to embark on a family trip to tropical Jamaica. As the Mallards make their way south for the winter, their well-laid plans quickly go awry. The experience will inspire them to expand their horizons, open themselves up to new friends, and accomplish more than they ever thought possible, all while teaching them more about each other — and themselves — than they ever imagined.
